Ding Dong, Round 2

Call for Core Grant Applications by the Ulrike Michal Foundation for the Arts

The Trustees of the Ulrike Michal Foundations for the Arts would like to announce the opening of their second funding round for core grant applications.

The Foundation is able to offer:

- ◆ Three grants of up to £500, three grants for between £501 and £1,000 and three grants for between £1,001 and £3,000 for art projects that “promote, encourage and extend the love, appreciation, enjoyment, understanding and practice of fine, decorative and applied arts among people of all ages through experiences at museums, art galleries, historic properties and in the community at large, both as individuals and communally, as participants and spectators.”

In the first funding round the foundation was able to support art workshops, art exhibitions, the conservation of works of art, residencies, as well as projects focused on clay, weaving and other crafts, involving individual artists, community groups, schools, local and national museums, and art galleries. Any fine or decorative arts project that meets the broad aims of the foundation will be considered. The Trustees especially welcome applications that cherish, celebrate and share the traditional skills of the fine and decorative arts.

Full details of the core grant scheme and eligibility criteria are to be found on the foundation website.

The Foundation welcomes applications for projects that will benefit communities across north Wales, Merseyside and the border counties of Cheshire, Shropshire and Herefordshire.

The deadline for all core grant applications is March 20th 2022, 5 p.m.

The Trustees of the Foundation reserve the right to alter the number of core grants depending on the quality of the applications.
